May 10, 2001

LB 305A

except they have more votes when it comes to the UN than I have on this floor. The United States loved to preach to people in other countries about violating human rights, with one of the worst human rights records you can find on the globe when it comes to the mistreatment of black people. So they got voted off that body. They're not on the human rights commission. They were voted off. Then there was another one that dealt with drug problems. America was voted off that one too, and nations are saying they are tired of the United States bullying other countries, going its own way, doing any kind of wrongful thing they choose and then presuming to lecture to others about how they ought to conduct their affairs. America is the one that violates and disregards international treaties. Then America wonders why they are reaping the whirlwind. It's because they sowed the wind. And for my Christian brothers and sisters on this floor, I want to remind you of something that you claim to believe but I don't. God is not mocked. Whatever a man sows that shall he also reap. That doesn't even hold true when you're farming. You sometimes put seeds in the ground and nothing grows, so it's not even true there. But it certainly is not true in human affairs and human events, because if that were true something bad would have happened to America by now. Black people would not be in a set of circumstances which would necessitate my standing on the floor in the year 2001 and talking like I'm talking. And the thing that is so remarkable, nobody can deny the truth of what I'm saying. You can hear these allegations and I can show you articles confirming the truth of it, and you don't care. Maybe what I need to start doing, not voting against things that are for children, but reminding you every time you bring something up. If when I...Senator Aguilar had brought his bill yesterday probably this is what I should have talked about, but this was not on my mind in connection with that bill because there were other overriding considerations--one of our colleagues, the justness of what was being attempted--so I participated in helping him to do that. But if it had come up today, after this discussion, I still would have helped him do it but I would have used it to show the difference in how white people on this floor react when we're talking about the interests of white children...

SENATOR CUDABACK: One minute.
